GERMAN AND ITALIAN ARMED FORCES START MANOEUVRES: RESERVISTS CALLED UP FOR AUGUST

BERLIN, AUG. 1 (REUTER)—GERMANY'S ARMED FORCES ARE ABOUT TO START WHAT MAY PROVE TO BE THE BIGGEST MANOEUVRES TO BE HELD FOR MANY YEARS.

Huge areas in North-Western Germany will be closed to-day to air traffic for 48 hours, while war planes carry out exercises. Foreign air attaches have not been invited to witness these exercises.

Although, all details of these exercises have been withheld, the size of the prohibited area shows that they will be on a very large scale.

Manoeuvres by motorized troops will follow and they are being held over a large area in south-east Germany, including parts of Silesia, Sudetenland, Bohemia and Moravia and will extend to the Polish frontier.

Reservists have been called up for an early date in August in many districts; private cars have been requisitioned and the shortage of petrol for civilian use is becoming apparent.

ITALIAN TROOPS OPERATE IN PO VALLEY

ROME, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—Simultaneously with the German air exercises, Italian troops will be carrying out manoeuvres in the Po Valley, which will be attended by the German Generals, Gen. Helder and Gen. Werth.

About 150,000 troops will be involved in action against "an enemy" which is assumed to be coming from the direction of the French frontier.

The exercises will cover an area 220 miles long and 45 miles wide.

"VITAL IMPORTANCE"

TARANTO, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—A communique issued at the close of the Italian naval manoeuvres in the central Mediterranean says that the manoeuvres from July 24 to July 30 were of "vital importance." Nearly all ships, submarines and aircraft of the fleet, also large formations of the air force participated.

The final meeting of high officers was attended also by higher officers of the German mission, headed by Admiral Grossmann, and the head of the Spanish mission, Commander Regalado.

The exercises made it possible to amass a great quantity of experimental data.

SHORTER COMMONS' RECESS

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—The Government motion for an adjournment in the House of Commons shows that the Government propose that the House adjourn until October 3. This is one month shorter than the usual recess.

The Opposition last night declared that the House should not adjourn for two months in view of the international situation.

WHEAT STORAGE IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—It is officially stated that wheat at present stored in the country, together with the present harvest, will be sufficient for the bread supply of the country for six months, without imports.

Canadian Missionary's Death Direct Result Of Anti-British Movement

PEIPING, AUG. 1 (REUTER)—THE ANTI-BRITISH MOVEMENTS SHOW NO SIGN OF A DECLINE and British missionaries in Tsangchow, to the south of Tientsin, have received orders to leave by the local Anti-British Committee, who have removed all British subjects.

One direct result of the anti-British movement contributed to the cause of the death of Miss Minnie Shipley, Canadian Missionary from London, Ontario, who died from typhus in Chenrich, Kwan, in a hospital, from which pickets had driven all the nurses, so that there was no one to nurse Miss Shipley.

BRITAIN AND FAR EAST

Need Felt For More Positive, Even More Aggressive Policy

LONDON, August 1 (Reuter)—The "Birmingham Post," which is traditionally a supporter of the Chamberlain family, in eulogizing the Government's attitude towards Europe, says that one can hardly speak with quite such confidence of Mr. Chamberlain's references to the other centre of interest—the Far East.

Others, apart from the Opposition, feel the need for a more positive and even a more aggressive British policy, and that feeling has been strengthened by the United States action in abrogating the 1911 Treaty.

Whatever the risk, says the paper, we hold that the Ministers would be wise to insist on some early quid pro quo in Tientsin for our compliance in Tokyo and insist that unless Japan ceases anti-British efforts in China, we have the will and power to help China.

Conservative members of the House of Commons interviewed by Reuter appear to be divided on the Prime Minister, Mr. Chamberlain's statement on Far Eastern policy.

While some in close touch with the Premier are satisfied that the

At the regular meeting of the Executive Yuan, Mr. Y. T. Tsui, noted educator and financier, was appointed Commissioner of Finance for Kwetchow in succession to Mr. Wang Tseng-yin. Mr. Tsui was formerly president of National Tsinghua University and Yenching University, and Vice-minister of Industry. (Central News).

Support For Chinese Currency

FUTURE PLANS NEED CAREFUL CONSIDERATION

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—With reference to the "Financial News" report on international support for Chinese currency, Reuter understands there is good reason to believe that France has already agreed in principle.

Details have not yet been discussed but the opinion is generally expressed that future plans for support will need most careful consideration in the light of the weakness in modus operandi of the Stabilization Fund as operating hitherto.

Financiers emphasize that support for Chinese currency cannot be effective unless it is accompanied by strict control of the Chinese note issue. It is also suggested that the Stabilization Fund should limit its operations to mercantile transactions and not sell foreign exchange against Chinese notes.

AUSTRALIA BUILDING SIX M.T.B.S

CANBERRA, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—The Defence Minister of Australia, Brigadier G. A. Street, declared that the Government is constructing six motor torpedo boats with a maximum speed of 42 knots.

The vessels will carry torpedo tubes as well as A.A. guns. They will be built at the naval dockyard on Cockatoo Island in Sydney Harbour.

Brig. Street also announced that six more of these vessels will be built later.

Income Tax Increase In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—Salient points in the New Zealand budget will be increase in income tax and death duties and increase in tax on beer and petrol.

In order to meet a deficit, estimated at $2,500,000 the Government propose raising the income tax minimum of 1/8 to 2/- with the maximum at 8/6 in the pound.

Death duties will be increased by 20 per cent. while the beer duty will be increased by sixpence from 1/3 to 1/9 per gallon and fourpence per gallon on petrol.

There will be increased expenditure in the army, air and naval services.

KING IN KILTS AT BALMORAL

The King and Queen, accompanied by the two Princesses, arrived at Balmoral yesterday where they are expected to remain until the end of September, reports Reuter from London.

They were given an enthusiastic welcome at the station where the King inspected a Guard of Honour from the second battalion Scottish Fusiliers. Their Majesties were met by the Marquess of Aberdeen. The King wore Highland kilt with Balmoral colours.

Kowloon Residents Ask Questions About Ferry Crews, Emergencies, Lock Road Unsanitary Conditions

LAMMA ISLAND SUGGESTED AS SETTLEMENT FOR REFUGEES BY MEMBER AT QUARTERLY MEETING

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE ABILITY OF CREWS ABOARD FERRIES in Hongkong harbour to deal with such emergencies as fire or collision, and about what the Association proposed to do regarding complaints about unsanitary conditions in certain areas in Kowloon, were asked at the second quarterly open meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association held on the lawn of St. Andrew's Church yesterday evening.

An interesting suggestion was put forward by a member who described Lamma Island as an appropriate settlement for refugees. It was proposed further that some enterprising landlord would erect houses on the island.

Another member suggested that to facilitate rescue work at night, each ferry boat carry at least two lifebuoys equipped with Holmes light.

The member also asked if the crews on the ferry boats had to undergo any form of life-saving drill.

Major C. M. Manners, O.B.E., who presided, replying to this question, said, "I assure you that the crews aboard Star Ferry boats know their stations. All the sailors swim. They are all prepared for trouble, fire or collision."

The same member continued to relate how recently a person of his acquaintance had been aboard a public motor-boat in the harbour, when the engine had stalled and fire broke out. With the awning on fire, the extinguishers had been turned to, and these were found empty. Another public motor-boat came to the rescue, and the fire-extinguishing apparatus on the second boat was also found to be not in working order.

The member asked, "Were these motor-boats subjected to a yearly overhaul? Most of the public motor-boats are antiquated, some being 1922 models."

In reply to a question by Major Manners, the narrator of the motor-boat incident said that the masters of either boat had been dealt with by the Harbour Master. One forfeited bail of $500, and the other was fined $250.

Major Manners promised inquiries into the matter.

KOWLOON HAWKERS

Another question put to the meeting was by a member resident in Lock Road who asked what was being done regarding complaints about hawkers and unsanitary conditions in certain areas in Kowloon.

COURAGE, CALMNESS & RESOURCE BEHIND THE BARRIERS IN TIENTSIN

BRITISH MERCHANTS FACE BLEAK PROSPECTS: BUT DEFEATISTS ARE FEW

From Our Own Correspondent

TIENTSIN, July 16.—A full month has passed since the barriers were clamped down upon the British. Actually it seems a good deal longer. So much—and in a way so little—has happened as to destroy the normal sense of time. The British community, and some of their friends of other nationalities, have adjusted themselves in the meantime to new ways of social life.

Tientsin has had a stormy history, and the British were in the thick of all these storms. Our foster-fathers, the pioneers who laid the foundations of the trade of a port which has also been second only to Shanghai, have left to us not a little of their heritage of courage, calmness, and resource. Only the inveterate grouse are heard to grumble.

A TIGHT SPOT. We know we are in a tight spot in many ways—and most of all in the economic sense, for that is the fundamental conflict.

In economics the mysterious New Order descends from the clouds of mysticism to brass tacks.

In that respect, whatever happens in the political sphere, the British merchants face a bleak prospect.

We are the next-door neighbours to "Manchoukuo," and from the first realised that we stood in more danger of sharing the fate of the foreign traders in that territory than anybody.

It is realised, of course, that the saving of Shanghai in 1927 meant in time—and not such a long time

"Income Tax In Hongkong:" The Hon. Mr. Sidney Caine Addresses Rotary Meeting

Hongkong Rotarians had an unusual subject for their weekly luncheon in the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel yesterday, when the Hon. Mr. Sidney Caine, Financial Secretary, talked to them on "Income Tax In Hongkong." Mr. Caine dealt with his subject in detail, taking it from the two main angles of how the ordinary man would be affected if income tax were imposed here, and the difficulties of enforcing and collecting the tax against dishonesty and legal loopholes.

Major R. D. Walker, M.C., and our larger public companies was in the Chair, and introduced two new members of the Club, Messrs. H. Tsai and J. Van der Laan. Guests present were:—Hon. Mr. W. J. Carr, Hon. Mr. H. R. Butters, Col. Rose, Dr. J. M. Yang, Director of the General Income Tax Administration of the Chinese Government, Messrs. L. B. Holmes, J. Ralston, T. J. Houston, W. H. Chen, H. G. Wallington and Lo Hung-nien.

MR. CAINE'S ADDRESS

Mr. Caine said, in part:—My subject is "Income Tax In Hongkong." That might mean "Ought we to have Income Tax?" or "Are we going to have Income Tax?" I am not going to attempt to take the answers to either of these questions any further than the recent Committee on Taxation, which expressed its belief in income tax as the best and most equitable of taxes if it could be successfully administered, and from whose Report you may all make your own guesses about the likelihood of its imposition. I am not going to tell you what ideas, if any, Government has on the subject.

The question I do propose to try and deal with, from the point of view of a private individual who has been both a payer of income tax and a member of the Inland Revenue Department at Home, may be put as: "what would it be like if we did have income tax in Hongkong?"

I want firstly to consider how the ordinary man might be affected, if an Income Tax existed here and secondly to pose a number of questions about the practical difficulties and consequences of its imposition. I may put forward some ideas as material for answering those questions but shall try to avoid giving any categorical answers.

APPARENT EFFECTS

To the ordinary man the most apparent effects of an Income Tax would be that he would be required to pay a certain amount of cash to the Government and that he would also have to go through the disagreeable process of receiving and filling in a lot of forms. As to the payment, the amounts would not be so great as some people seem to have thought judging by press reports when the report of the Taxation Committee was published. An income tax at a certain standard rate, whether it is 5/6d. in the £ or 10% or 5%, does not mean that everybody is going to pay 5/6d. in the £ or 10% as the case may be, of his total income. An income tax here would no doubt be modelled on the system in the United Kingdom and in other parts of the Empire.

TWO MAIN QUERIES

I turn now to the more difficult and controversial points. I propose to concentrate on two main queries, each with a lot of side-issues; could the Government catch all the income which ought to pay tax? and would the tax drive business, industry, etc. away from the Colony?

The answer to the first requires an analysis of the various forms of income which would be taxable. I would divide those into income from real property in the Colony, income from the profits of public companies operating in the Colony, income from salaries drawn by employees, income from the profits of private business of all kinds, and income from property, investments, etc. outside the Colony.

Income of several of those classes would not be very easy to conceal. There is no reason why tax on house property incomes should be any more difficult to collect than the present assessed rates on the same property.

Tax on the profits of limited liability companies would be levied on the company itself, the shareholder paying automatically by deduction from his dividends; and our larger public companies would find it hard to defraud the revenue, even if, perchance, they were capable of attempting it.

INVESTMENTS ABROAD

The other large class of income in which considerable evasion might take place is income from investment abroad. Here again methods developed on the experience of other administrations would be helpful but might not cover the whole field.

Undoubtedly the close inter-connection and frequent communication which normally link Hongkong with South China would impose unusual difficulties in this particular sphere.

THE BUSINESS VIEWPOINT

I come now to the second main question, would business be frightened away? There is a class of action which is known as "avoidance" of tax, in contradistinction to "evasion," and which consists of perfectly legal action causing the transfer of the income outside the scope of the taxing authority.

The primary purpose of this talk was to draw attention to the problems involved and to show that the question of introducing income tax is not one to which one can answer "Yes" or "No" on the spur of the moment. In the short time available I hope I have succeeded in proving that it is a complicated matter. I hope that I have not also proved it to be a very dull one.

Sir Henry Pollock

Thanking the speaker, the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, Senior Unofficial member on the Legislative Council, said:—"I must confess that I was very much embarrassed when I was asked to give thanks in regard to any proposal to impose income tax in Hongkong. I was very much relieved when the speaker in the course of his very able address pointed out the difficulties there might be in enforcing income tax in Hongkong." (Laughter).

As far as he was concerned, Sir Henry went on, he was not in favour of income tax, and at the moment he did not see any necessity for it.

"I should like on your behalf, as well as my own, to thank Mr. Caine for the very able way in which he has discussed all the different pros and cons in connection with the matter. I cannot agree with him that his address has been dull. We might look upon a subject on income tax as disagreeable or annoying, but dull is hardly applicable." (Laughter and applause).

There has been in the past some criticism of the neglect of the author's burial place at Vallima, and the tribute paid by the new stamp will therefore be the more welcome to admirers of R. L. S.

H.K. Rifle Association Annual Meeting: Healthy Financial Position

Presiding at the annual meeting of the Hongkong Rifle Association, held at the Jacobean Room of the Hongkong Hotel, yesterday evening, the President, Major R. D. Walker, M.C., remarked that the Club for the first time in its history showed a healthy balance.

Mr. J. Hargreaves, Hon. Treasurer, endorsed this remark and said that the cash in hand at the conclusion of the Club year showed a balance of $1,700, against a small income of $50 the year previous. The loss, through trophies, was only about $300, as compared with $1,100 last year.

Among those present were Brigadier A. B. Thomson, Major R. Robertson, Major A. G. Syme, Major S. E. H. E. White, Captain W. C. Newton, Captain F. Sale (Hon. Secretary), Lieut. A. J. Le Seellier (Acting Hon. Secretary) and others.

Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—

President—Major R. D. Walker; Vice-Presidents—Brig. J. T. W. Reeve, Brigadier A. B. Thomson, Col. A. G. Neville, Col. G. C. Gowland and Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones. Hon. Secretary—Capt. F. Sale; Hon. Treasurer—Mr. J. Hargreaves.

Annual Report

The annual report of the Association for the year January 1 to May 31, 1939, which was adopted, reads in part, as follows:—

At an extraordinary general meeting held on January 29, 1939, it was unanimously agreed that the Financial Year of the Association should be from June 1 to May 31 instead of from January 1 to December 31, and that the period January 1 to May 31, 1939 count as a Financial Year. By this amendment of the rules the Financial Year coincides with the shooting year.

It was with the greatest regret that the Association had to say good-bye to Major Murray at the close of the shooting year. His cheery personality and capacity for hard work will be very much missed by all. He was always a tower of strength to the Association and most ably carried on the splendid work of his predecessor.

Membership

The number of affiliated Clubs stood at thirteen.

Annual Prize Meeting

The Annual Prize Meeting was held on the Army Ranges, Kowloon from April 13 to 17. With this meeting was incorporated the Services Meeting thus making a saving in expenses and time.

Heavy rainstorms on the first day of the Blesley Meeting proper, followed by continuous rain on the succeeding days, necessitated a slight curtailment of the programme and the postponement of the Final of H. E. The Governor's Prize. This event together with Club Team shoots was completed in fine weather on Sunday May 14, when His Excellency honoured the Association with his presence on the Ranges and distributed the prizes at the conclusion.

The entries showed a marked increase on previous years, possibly due to the institution of a separate class for the S. R. (a) rifle. Team entries also showed an increase. Daily entries of necessity showed a decrease owing to the curtailment of competitions on account of the weather.

It is most satisfactory to record that in spite of the appalling conditions the score qualifying for last place in the Governor's twenty was 5 points higher than last year. His Excellency's Prize of $250 and an autographed portrait were won by P. O. Swan of the Royal Naval Range Staff, Stonecutters.

The thanks of the Association are due to the General Officer Commanding for allowing personnel of the Services to assist in the running of the Meeting which they so nobly did under very trying conditions.

Captain E. H. B. Nell, The Seaforth Highlanders was once again in charge of the Statistical side. He will be greatly missed in future as he has left for the United Kingdom.

The Administrative side was in the capable hands of Garrison Sergeant Major C. M. Estall M. C.

to whom the Association owes a very deep debt of gratitude for all his work.

Spoon and Practice Shoots—These continued to be well patronised and the introduction of occasional Long Range shoots proved to be very popular.

Gun Club Section—This section continued to be ably run by Capt. W. C. Newton and was particularly popular at the Prize Meeting.

Annual Dinner—A very successful dinner, attended by some 160 members was held on Friday April 21 in the Peninsula Hotel. Their Excellencies the Governor and the G. O. C. were among the guests.

Finances—The Balance Sheet for the year is most satisfactory, showing a profit, considerably higher than last year. The opportunity has been taken to depreciate Clubhouse by 10 per cent. of its value. It is particularly satisfactory to note that the heavy expenditure on Spoon Shoots has been considerably reduced.

Acknowledgement—The Association acknowledges with grateful thanks the additional cups that have been presented this year and also the help accorded by the Local Press in giving publicity to its activities. It is further indebted to all those organisations and firms which have helped by advertising in the "Year Book" or in any other way.

In the Second Round of the Lawn Bowls Open Singles Championship, in a match played at the Kowloon Football Club yesterday, A. K. Minu beat N. A. Mackay 21-8.

342nd Baby Named After Joan Crawford

When tiny Joan Albin, daughter of a Hollywood photographer, blinked her eyes upon this world recently, she brought a new honour to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star Joan Crawford, the honour of having more namesakes than any other actress in pictures.

For the baby, named after Miss Crawford, was the 342nd child born in the past two years to be named after the star.

Albin, whose candid camera studies appear in many pictorial magazines, was one of the group of photographers who recently voted Miss Crawford the most "co-operative actress in pictures" due to her willingness to pose for flash shots at various popular Hollywood night spots.

TURKISH PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

MUTUAL INTERESTS WITH BRITAIN

LONDON, July 18 (By Air Mail)—Gen. Inceun, President of Turkey, yesterday affirmed his country's determination to carry out her obligations in joining with Britain in resistance to aggression.

In a message to the British nation through the Special Correspondent of "The Daily Telegraph," he said that Turkey would prove "a very loyal ally."

The interests of Britain and Turkey, he said, were completely mutual. He expressed the hope that Bulgaria might shortly be induced to join Turkey, Greece, Rumania and Yugoslavia in the Balkan Entente, thus strengthening the forces of peace. M. Sarajoglu, Turkish Foreign Minister, addressing the National Assembly yesterday, declared that a war in Europe could not be localised. The Turks, he said, loved peace, but they would if necessary, show that they sometimes loved fighting.

BRITISH REQUEST REFUSED

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—In the House of Commons yesterday, when answering a question on Prague, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, revealed that the British request for an Exequatur for the Consul-General in Prague had been refused by the German Government on the ground that while His Majesty's Government had declared that they recognized that an Exequatur constituted a de facto recognition of the present situation in Bohemia and Moravia, they could not modify the view already expressed as regards the legality of the manner in which the position had been brought about.

Teletype Communications For "Northwest Passage"

The first teletype installation to give a motion picture location company direct contact with the studio, was completed recently between the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production department and Sylvan Beach camp, on Payette Lake, Idaho, where "Northwest Passage" will shortly go into production, with a cast of 3000 headed by Spencer Tracy and Robert Taylor.

Hitherto, short wave radio has been resorted to for location companies removed from telephone and other necessary facilities. For "Northwest Passage," fifty miles of telephone wire was strung to connect up the various location units, and a teletype machine installed at the main camp at Sylvan Beach.

Mistakes Eliminated
To operate the installation, a long distance telephone call is placed and then the message is typed at either end of the 1500-mile wire, and received at the other. Mistakes, which might be made due to word-of-mouth instructions are eliminated by this reception of written orders.

King Vidor, director, will be in charge of operations at Payette Lake. Hunt Stromberg is the producer.

HUNGARY IS AFRAID OF HITLER

NO INTERVENTION IN MAJOR WAR

LONDON, July 18 (By Air Mail)—Admiral Horthy, Hungarian Regent, is expected in certain circles to tell Hitler during the next few days that he cannot count on Hungarian armed intervention in a major war. Perhaps.

Hungarian neutrality would command overwhelming support among his people.

REVERSAL OF FEELING
There has been a complete reversal of feeling since last September, when Magyar troops would have cheerfully marched shoulder to shoulder with Hitler's regiments into Czechoslovakia, and, no doubt, have answered the call to whatever other front called for their help.

German pressure grows daily on Hungary in efforts to capture more of the non-Axis trade, to benefit increasingly from the fertility of her soil. Hitler's will is reflected in new legislation and in the protests made whenever an unfriendly reference creeps into the Hungarian Press.

"WE HATE IT!"

Hungarian resentment is rising with every tightening of the screw, in official circles as well as among the man-in-the-street. Faulty German goods, for example, the unreliable motor-cars that dominate the market, do not lessen this dislike.

Yet Hungary dare not antagonise her mighty neighbour, who enjoys—without counting Bohemia and Moravia—40 per cent of her trade, on barter terms so weighted in Germany's favour that foreign observers on the spot already talk of Hungary as a German colony.

"Hungary is having to come in with Germany, but we hate it." This view is heard on every hand in Budapest... from the nobility to a humble waiter. "What else can we do?" they ask. "Britain is not interested in Hungary, and if she was she would be too far away to help us."

A GUARANTEE?
Britain, despite Trianon and the disappointment that she has not actively supported revision of the Treaty, is held in considerable esteem. Hungarians like themselves in many ways to us and would welcome greater earnest of reciprocal feeling from English people.

Could not means be found of extending the system of guarantees to this brave country and at the same time, in their common interest, to encourage an understanding between Hungary and Rumania.

DRUG SITUATION IN NORTH CHINA

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—His Majesty's Government have under immediate consideration possible representations to the Japanese Government on the drug situation in the occupied areas of China, declared Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in the course of a written reply to a question asked in the House of Commons yesterday.

"Balalaika" Ready For Cameras

"Balalaika," starring Neilson Eddy and Diana Massey, is ready for production, following a month of pre-recording eleven numbers and two opera sequences.

Lifting, stirring and romantic Russian music, featuring the Tanya number, "Love Duet," "Ride, Cossack, Ride," and "At the Balalaika," highlight of the musical, adapted for the screen from the London stage success by Eric Maschwitz, who shared screen play credit for "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" with R. C. Sherriff and Claudine West.

Dashing Role
Eddy has the most dashing role of his career as a Cossack officer who falls in love with a commoner. In a powerful and dramatic story of Old Russia, Russia of the revolution and later.

Miss Massey, who was introduced to motion picture audiences in "Rosalie," comes to the screen as a radiant new personality, following months of preparation for stardom.

Lawrence Weingarten will bring "Balalaika" to the screen, with Reinhold Schunzel directing. Charles Ruggles and Lionel Atwill have been added to the cast of "Balalaika."

POLICE BATTLE WITH STRIKERS: 34 INJURED

Tear-Gas, Truncheons & Brick-Bats Used

OLIVELAND, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—At least thirty-four were injured in a battle between strikers and the police at the Fisher Motor-Body Factory following an attempt to close the factory by members of the United Automobile Union, which is affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organization.

Tear gas, truncheons and brick-bats were used and several cars carrying workers to the factory were overturned and burned. Later a truce was reached.

MUSIC QUICKENS UP WORK

Views Of Factory Officials

Music in factories can speed up work, according to views expressed in a report on rest pauses and refreshments in industry, issued by the National Institute of Industrial Psychology.

Interviews were obtained with officials of 1,050 factories employing 305,000 people. A percentage of 10.7 of the factories provided music.

"Some of the comments from these officials were:

"Employees doing hammer work keep time to swingy music. Manager has noticed work quicken up with introduction of music.

Music has the effect of stopping chatter, and work improves in consequence.

The girls prefer work in the warehouse with music to work in other departments where higher wages are earned.

Singing is allowed, and they work better, because it stops them talking. People can work and sing, but they cannot work and talk.

Can Work And Sing

Commenting on criticism of "canned" music, the report states:

"We must not condemn 'canned' music too harshly, for its presence in the factory may be but the modern equivalent of the flute player of olden days who charmed the ears of the Greek ladies as they carried out their household tasks."

It was found that 52.9 per cent. of the factories visited had official rest pauses, which were spent in taking refreshments. Bread was the most common food, and tea the most popular liquid refreshment.

The effect of rest pauses on efficiency was considered to be good by 82 per cent. of the employers.

LORD DAWSON & KING GEORGE V.

Timely Action In Illness Of 1928

Intimate stories of King George V and members of his family are told by Sister Catherine Black—"Blackie," as she is affectionately known at Buckingham Palace—in her autobiography "King's Nurse, Beggar's Nurse." (Hurst and Blackett 12s 6d).

Sister Black was one of the nurses summoned to the King's bedside in November, 1928. During King George's moribund illness and convalescence her services were so valuable that she was permanently attached to the Royal Household, and tended the King in his last illness.

She reveals that at the most critical stage of the former illness it was Viscount Dawson of Penn who located the fluid in the lung, in the nick of time.

"The doctors were unable to locate the abscess which had formed."

"One afternoon the King was so much worse that it was feared he could not live for many hours. I was sitting alone that evening with his Majesty when Lord Dawson came into the room."

"Will you give me a syringe?" he said suddenly. "I think I will make one more try to find that fluid." In less than a few seconds he had found the exact place."

Not Going Abroad

When the time came for convalescence it was King George who insisted on staying in England. "I'm not going abroad," he said firmly. "England is good enough for me. I like my own country best, climate or no and I'm staying in it."

On another occasion Nurse Black records him as saying: "I'm not like my father. There's nothing of the cosmopolitan in me—I'm afraid I'm insular."

She comments on the resemblance of the present King to his father, who once said

NO DAMAGES FOR CAMEL BITE

Mr. Justice Branson, giving judgment at Surrey Assizes, Kingston, recently in an action brought by a man who was bitten by a camel at Chessington Zoo held that camel was a domestic animal.

He gave judgment for the proprietor of the zoo, Mr. R. S. Goddard, who was sued by Mr. Robert McQuaker, an engineer, of Cumberland-street, Victoria S. W.

The wedding took place yesterday at the Registry, Supreme Court, of Mr. Anatole Zaiter, merchant, of No. 110, Austin Road, and Miss Eugenie Zagorsky, Mr. T. J. Gould, Deputy Registrar of Marriages, officiated, the witnesses being Messrs. Walter J. Citrin and Vadim Bonch.

In her presence: "Bertie is not one of those people who put all their goods in the shop-window, but whatever he does in life he does it well."

King George's robust common sense is illustrated by a story which Nurse Black tells us of an alarm at Buckingham Palace, when it was discovered that she had visited Dulwich Hospital and shaken hands with two patients who had soon afterwards developed smallpox.

A Robust Retort
One of the King's physicians said that she must be vaccinated, and that as a precautionary measure it would be wiser for the King to be vaccinated, too.

Nurse Black, knowing the King's dislike of "fussing," protested, but the doctor, full of the importance of the occasion, hurried off to inform his Majesty.

"He came back considerably deflated. 'What did he say about it?' I asked, a trifle maliciously. The King's medical adviser cleared his throat. 'Well... er... what he actually said was that there would be time enough for all that damned nonsense when he or you go smallpox.'"

The jury comprises Messrs. J. F. Robinson (Foreman), W. H. R. Schmidt, G. S. Rodger, Khoo Hong-tsau, Kwok Tui-lo, William Kang-po Choi and O. A. O. Barrett.

On resumption of the trial in the morning, Wong To, conductor of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, gave evidence.

He said that at 7 a.m. on April 23, when he was on duty on route No. 11 from Lai-chuk to Kowloon City, Lau Hei-yuk, boarded the bus in Gascoigne Road and tendered a ten cent old silver currency coin.

Witness told him it was a bad coin, whereupon Lau tendered another one which was also bad.

At that, Lau produced a $10 note which witness refused to change.

He told Lau to get off the bus. Lau refused and suggested that he ride on the bus until they reached Hung-hom, where he would change the note.

Witness said that they could not waste time, whereupon Lau suggested that they go to the Hung-hom Police Station.

Sergeant R. Grainger, Chan Chun-wing, money-changer's fong, Wan Wai-yin, interpreter at Hung-hom Police Station, and Sergeant G. S. Fender gave formal testimony after which Det.-Insp. A. E. Carey went into the witness-box.

TELEPHONE CALL

He said that Sub-Inspectors often referred to him for advice. On April 23, he received a telephone call from S. I. Edwards about 8.10 a.m. Edwards said that there was a man at the Hung-hom station who had been arrested for passing counterfeit coins. When searched, the man was found to have several coins on his person.

Witness said he told Edwards that on the face of it, there appeared to be a charge; he instructed Edwards to take statements, lock the man up and submit a report to the Divisional Superintendent of Police (Kowloon).

About 9.30 a.m., stated witness, he received another telephone call from Edwards, who said that the man was a No. 1 carpenter at the Kowloon Docks and a kai-fong. Witness then advised Edwards to refuse to charge the man.

On April 27 Edwards brought a report to me, which I submitted to the Deputy Commissioner of Police.

Edwards called at my office again on May 4 and I told him I had instructions from the D.C.P. to take a cautioned statement from him in connection with his interpreter's case.

Edwards said, "In that case it appears I am under suspicion. I don't wish to make a statement. I should like to consult my solicitor." I told him I would have to communicate his attitude to the D.C.P.

Leung Shiu-ki, a member of the Hip On Club, and Ma Chai, secretary, gave evidence of being present at the Club when Lau and a stranger came on the morning in question.

Lau asked Ma for $100, and took a $10 note from his pocket and laid it on a table. The stranger mentioned $120, but when Lau said that was all he had, the stranger took the money and left.

A.D.C.I.'S EVIDENCE

Mr. F. W. Shaffan, Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence, (Crime) told the Court: On April 25, I received a telephone message from Mr. Losby, in consequence of which I sent Inspector Hopkins to Mr. Losby's office.

On the following day, Inspector Hopkins reported to me and handed me a statement. After reading it I telephoned to Edwards and instructed him to report to my office that afternoon. He came and I handed him the statement. I had received from Inspector Hopkins. That was the statement

JAPAN SEEKS CLARIFICATION IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (Reuter).—In a lengthy talk with Mr. Cordell Hull, the U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. Horinouchi, the Japanese Ambassador in Washington, asked for a clarification of the notice to terminate the 1911 Trade Treaty.

Mr. Horinouchi said afterwards that he had discussed the situation generally with Mr. Hull, but that he had not brought any representations from the Japanese Government.

whom was Lau. The facts regarding the counterfeit coins were reported to him. He went to his quarters to have a whisky and lemon and then returned to the Charge Room where he telephoned Insp. Carey. He felt confused and not being able to deal with the case, felt that Inspector Carey would send a man over to take charge of deal with the case himself.

Witness said he did not recollect telephoning Insp. Carey on a second occasion, though that might have been possible.

He returned to his quarters again and had another drink. He remained for some time and returned to the Charge Room between 8.30 and 9 a.m., when he telephoned the manager of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company to tell him a conductor of the company had been detained in connection with the case. Lau was then in the dock.

After going back to his quarters, Edwards said he returned to the Charge Room about 10 a.m. when he told the interpreter Un to send for Wong Wing because Lau had said that he was a No. 1 carpenter at the docks.

RETURN MONEY

Witness said he told Un to release Lau and return the money taken from him, and also told Un to let Lau sit in the detectives' room while waiting for Wong Wing. "I had made up my mind," said Edwards, "that Lau had no guilty knowledge about the coins. I wanted Wang to vouch for Lau."

Witness said he went to his quarters to have another drink and then decided to go to the detective's room to see if Wong had been sent for. There he saw Lau, Un and Detective Sgt. Ho Sang. He asked Ho if he knew Lau, and Ho replied that he did.

Lau and Un sat down and after a minute, witness also sat down. He told Un to tell Lau that the latter had only himself to blame for being detained for such a long time as he had been accused of a serious offence. Witness stated no words passed between Lau and himself.

FEELING BAD

Witness said he did not listen to what Un was saying, as he, apart from feeling bad, was thinking of a dispute between his wife and himself, which occurred just before he left his quarters. Witness stated he had on the previous day promised to return to take his wife to a show. Returning that night in the condition he was in and drinking again the next morning caused his wife to be angry and she abused him. He did not hear Un say anything to Lau about money.

There was no truth whatsoever in what Un had said about him, stated Edwards.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Cross-examined by Mr. Whyatt, Edwards agreed that for an Officer-in-Charge of a police station to return to the station in a drunken state might jeopardise his whole career.

Witness said he felt heavy, depressed and washed out and was also suffering from catarrh, which was accelerated by his drinking. He did not mention to anyone at the station that he was not feeling up to his mark, but he was able to hear well and write as usual.

Producing the report which Edwards had written on the morning in question, Mr. Whyatt asked if there was anything in it to indicate that he was not up to his work when he was making it out. Edwards replied that there was none, though it was not necessary that one should write badly if one was feeling bad.

Edwards said that he was able to discharge his normal duties that morning and was able to speak Cantonese to Detective Sgt. Ho Sang.

SEQUEL TO PRINTERS' STRIKE

S.C.A. ACCEPT APOLOGIES

The sit-down strike by nearly 2,000 printers and compositors on July 10, which affected the publication of a number of local Chinese newspapers, had a sequel before Mr. R. Edwards at the Central Court yesterday when five men of the Printers' Union were charged with distributing leaflets, or circulars, without the sanction of the Hon. Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

The defendants, Ma Chiu-fan, Man Chai-hing, Mo Ho-chai, Cheung Ping-hai and Wong Tse-chol, were discharged the prosecution offering no evidence against them.

APOLOGIES ACCEPTED

Mr. J. B. Prentiss, Assistant Crown Solicitor, addressing the Court, said:—Since the last hearing the defendants have attended before the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, Mr. H. R. Butters, and they have tendered their apologies for their offence and their apologies have been accepted.

Mr. Prentiss then read the letter as follows:—

"To Hon. Mr. H. R. Butters, Sir, On July 6 we have distributed to our members copies of a notice bearing the heading 'For the information of people in all walks of life.'"

We should have submitted it to you for censorship before distribution, but this was overlooked and we very much regret it. We respectfully request that we may be excused and the summons against our representatives, Ma Chiu-fan, Cheung Ping-hai, Man Chai-hing, Mo Ho-chai, Wong Tse-chol be withdrawn.

With grateful thanks in anticipation,

We are, Sir,

Your obedient servants,
Ma Chiu-fan, Man Chai-hing, Mo Ho-chai, So Man-wun, Leung Lin-yau. (Members of the Standing Committee.)

"Under the circumstances I propose to offer no evidence," said Mr. Prentiss.

The summonses were withdrawn accordingly.

BABY ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN ABANDONED

Husband And Wife Committed To Sessions

"I was told that there were already 40 children in the Hospital, and they could not admit my child. I asked them if they would admit my baby, as they were a charitable institution."

With this statement, Leung Fuk, with his wife, Yeung Yip, who were charged with having abandoned their one-week-old child at the junction of Leven Road and Argyle Street, Kowloon City, on the night of July 19, replied yesterday to the evidence of Dr. Y. K. Kwok, of Kwong Wah Hospital, respecting the child's admission to the Hospital. Leung claimed that his child had not been admitted when taken to the Hospital on the afternoon of July 19.

Found in Field
The child was admitted to Kwong Wah Hospital on the night of July 19, after it was stated to have been found by Mr. and Mrs. Ong Kwan-yin, who are resident in Prince Edward Road, about 8 p.m., in a field off Leven Road.

Describing the alleged finding of the baby, Mr. Ong told the Court: "There was a steady drizzle, and it was quite dark. We were attracted by the cry of a baby, and we walked off the road into the field to look for it. A cyclist came along, and he had a torch light. We discovered the baby under some tall grass, wrapped in black cloth."

Dr. Kwok told the Court the baby had been admitted to Kwong Wah Hospital in good health, but on July 28 had developed diarrhoea and a temperature.

Committed For Trial
The defendants were both committed to the sessions after further evidence was heard from police officers respecting the arrest.

In their final statement in Court yesterday, Leung Fuk denied any knowledge of the baby having been abandoned until told of it by his wife, and Yeung Yip, his wife, claimed that she alone had been responsible for the baby having been abandoned.

RURAL WELFARE IN SHUMCHUN

Gift Of Seeds From Honolulu China Relief Committee

As a result of an appeal from the Shumchun Rural Welfare Centre the Honolulu China Emergency Medical Relief Committee responded by organizing a seed and Plant Committee and an allocation of $250.00 U.S. was made as the initial fund.

Dr. Fred K. Lam, the Chairman of the China Emergency Medical Relief Committee, Honolulu, writes, "I am glad to learn that you are continuing your efforts in helping the farmers and refugees in this relief work. More power to you. Our committee has authorized an expenditure of $250.00 for the purchase of seeds, under the direction of Mr. H. L. Chung, and Dr. D. Y. Chang for trans-shipment to you in the near future."

First Shipment
The first shipment of first class seeds have already arrived. They were donated by well-wishers, among whom are Messrs. Wong Yen, Mow Sing Wai, and the Hawaiian Products, Ltd.

According to the programme of the Shumchun Rural Welfare Centre, the seeds will be distributed free to the members of the Farmers Co-operatives in the Shumchun Area. The farmers will be taught how to plant and tend these new cultures and a record will be kept showing the progress of the plants. Each farmer will be contracted to return a quantity of seeds from the plants. In this way additional seeds will be available for the next and future crops.

Distribution
In view of the present emergency conditions prevailing in the Shumchun area, the Centre has decided to distribute a small amount of the seeds to interested horticulturalists and farmers in the Colony and New Territories. Application can be made in person, or by post, to the Hon. Secretary, Mr. K. S. Lo, c/o Eu Tong Sen, Ltd., 109, Queen's Road. This policy is adopted so that the seeds will be sown and grown in conditions of security and whatever happens the strains will find root in the South China area.

The seeds at present available are the famous Solo-Papaya, West-gate Sweet Corn, Red Variety Chinese Spinach, Kale Chinese Variety, Selected U.S.A. 13 Island corn.

NEW CREDITS FOR CHINA?

ALTHOUGH considerable prominence has been given in the press to a report that Dr. Sun Fo, President of the Chinese Legislative Yuan, who is now in Moscow, has completed arrangements with the Government of the U.S.S.R. for the grant of Soviet credits to China amounting to 750,000,000 gold roubles, or the equivalent of U.S.$150,000,000, no confirmation or denial has been forthcoming. Chungking officials, when interviewed on the subject, refused to comment though it was learned from one source that "there is something in the wind" and that such credits were likely.

CHINA and her friends naturally hope that the report will prove to be correct for, though she is prepared to continue her war of resistance to the end irrespective of whether or not foreign aid is forthcoming, help of the nature of that reported would be most welcome in helping her to win the war and to smash the Japanese aggression. The more assistance China receives from sympathetic friends, the quicker we will see an end to this senseless fighting. The less she receives, the slower will be her victory.

WHILE further information on the subject of the reported Soviet credits is awaited with the keenest interest, reports have come to hand from London to the effect that active consultations are proceeding between the British, French and American Governments concerning the future of China's currency. These consultations are going on, it is stated, in view of the determined attempts of the Tokyo Government to force the hand of Great Britain into supporting the puppet, or Japanese-sponsored, currency of North China.

GREAT CONFIDENCE has in the past been placed in the Chinese Government and its financial leaders by Great Britain and the United States through the extension of vast credits to enable China to maintain her currency and to

BAGGAGE SYSTEM NOW BEING ADOPTED BY SHIPPING COMPANIES

Special to the "Hongkong Daily Press"
In June the "Hongkong Daily Press" exposed the "baggage racket" conducted by local coolies on the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company's piers. At the time a plan by Major C. M. Mann, O.B.E. manager of the Wharf and Godown Company, was also published, and consisted of a central baggage clearing station in the godowns.

Bishop H. J. Molony, former Bishop of Chekiang, whose death occurred in London recently.

Stratosphere Suit Is Used At Kai Tak

BUT CLIMATE UNSUITABLE

In the heat of yesterday afternoon at Kai Tak, Mr. Karl Rich, an American and inventor of a "stratosphere costume" made a test in the air attired in his seemingly complicated apparel.

Wearing a silvered suit covering every part of his body from his feet to his neck, and his head encased in an aluminium tube helmet with small eye-windows, he appeared similar to the modern robot. Small oxygen tanks, controlled from his waist, had their outlet in the grotesque helmet on his head.

Piloted by Flight Lieut. Jerry Longfield in a Far East Flying Training School plane, Mr. Rich had intended to attempt to reach an altitude of 14,000 feet to test his apparatus which is to be used in the 20,000 to 30,000 feet levels.

However, the climate in Hongkong yesterday was not exactly suitable for the trial. Before Mr. Rich had left the airfield he was almost boiling in his gear, and at 5,000 feet his condition had not improved. Thus a return to the field was necessary when Mr. Rich called it a day on emerging from his interesting stratosphere suit dripping with perspiration.

Mrs. Rich, in dead silence watched the test but refrained from comment.

withstand the assaults of an unscrupulous and relentless enemy to undermine her currency. But as in her war with Japan in which she will assuredly emerge victorious, China has so far proved victorious so far as the economic and financial war with Japan is concerned. She has successfully met her obligations and there is no reason to believe that, in spite of the crushing burden of the war and the loss of much of her most valuable territory, she will dishonour any of her engagements. Her financial leaders have upheld the integrity of China's trade and finances in the best traditions of the Chinese people and they will continue to do so. Further credits from sympathetic Powers will be most welcome and those granting such credits may rest assured that China will not let them down.

MEANWHILE, the world will heave a sigh of relief over the fact that Britain refuses any longer to be browbeaten by Tokyo and over her assurance to the Chinese people that "We will not let you down."

The company would be responsible for baggage removals from ships or to ships from the clearing quarters. Following this arrangement there would be no need for coolies and they would, therefore, not be allowed on the ships or piers.

The steamship companies are now eventually beginning to co-operate and the Blue Funnel Line has put such a system into effect, though it does not patronize the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown's piers.

The American President Line made their first attempt last Saturday on the departure of the President Coolidge for the United States. However, according to the local manager, Mr. T. B. Wilson, the baggage system they are attempting to adopt will not be confined to Chinese passengers or to ships leaving this port homeward bound. It will apply to all passengers, first, second, tourist class, etc. and to all ships arriving at and departing from Hongkong.

It is true the American President Line has had difficulties with certain passengers attempting to land opium in the United States. In fact, attempts of this nature have been made during the many years of the Line's history, but this is not the only reason the American President Line's officials have decided to adopt a systematic baggage scheme.

The difficulties encountered with the "racketeering baggage coolies" and the petty "cumshaw merchants" have finally proved too annoying for passengers.

"This Line is run for passengers; they come first. Therefore, we are trying to give them the best service in our power," remarked Mr. Wilson.

Returns for July 31 include 28 cases of tuberculosis, 3 cases of enteric fever and dysentery and one case of puerperal fever.

DAMAGES AWARDED

Damages to the extent of $400 were awarded by the Police Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsay, in the Summary Court yesterday to Hoo Kam-tai, who brought a claim against A. G. Hargreave, of the Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd., for personal injuries and damage to a motor cycle as the result of an accident in February.

BEHIND TIENTSIN BARRIERS

either—the saving of the whole British position in China; at least till 1937.

TRADE REVIVED

Hankow had a very bad time for months after the "surrender," but the pessimists were confounded and, with Shanghai as a secure base, changes began which soon made themselves felt in Hankow and even beyond. Less than a year after the mob over-ran the Concession there the new regime in that Concession had settled down, the boycott was over and British trade revived.

Nobody imagines that we shall march from crisis to prosperity in so short a time. The exchange and trade control measures now cover virtually the whole field of trade, and are effective.

They will last "for the duration," whether the dynamics of the Japanese advance-policy take them to the South Seas, or to Outer Mongolia and Siberia. The Anfu Government, which did for the Japanese what the latter have had to do for themselves in China, survived the end of the Great War in Europe. It was not until intervention in Siberia had failed that that regime, too, fell.

IF THERE IS WAR...

If there is war in Europe, in which we are involved, no doubt we shall all find ourselves in exactly the same position as were the Germans in 1914.

But if the world crisis finally resolves itself into a death-grapple between the two rival ideologies of Fascism and Communism, with formidable intervention both in Western Russia and in Siberia, and the Democratic Powers accepting the rôle of spectators, much of the British and foreign position in China will be saved. On that foundation even Tientsin might be able to revive later on. But we have no illusions in regard to the immediate future of British trade. For the smaller firms the outlook is serious, and that is the most depressing feature of the situation.

FULL SHARE OF TRIALS

The British had to fight a couple of little wars before their right to trade here was established. A decade later anti-foreign riots and a massacre in the city suburbs led to a crisis in which the lives of all the foreign community were most gravely imperilled. Only Providence saved us then.

Three more decades—then the Boxer Siege. That, too, was survived.

We have had our full share of trials in the innumerable civil wars since the first Revolution, since Tientsin is the gateway to Peking, and these struggles all converged on the old capital till Nanking took its place. So we are insured to violence and disorder.

And when the Japanese last year began to build the new road circumscribing the Concessions—now lined with the electrified fence—we knew what sort of rod was in pickle for us.

APPEASEMENT?

Tientsin, too, adopted a policy of appeasement, not with unseemly haste but with all decent despatch. It compelled the Japanese to shift their ground from one potential pretext to another.

Finally, they picked on the "Case of the Four Men." It was, perhaps, one of the worst they could have chosen on moral grounds, but the most difficult for us on tactical grounds. We do not, as a rule allow political expediency to interfere with the processes of criminal justice.

Even that case might have been settled if it had been the real cause of the dispute and not a mere pretext. There was always the uncomfortable feeling that even if this pretext had been disposed of there would always be others.

And in the end the Japanese made it abundantly clear that neither the surrender of the four men nor the settlement of purely local issues in a purely local way would satisfy them. They demand the revision of British policy in China.

THREE CATEGORIES

Roughly there are three categories into which the Chinese domain is divided in Japanese conceptions. "Manchukuo" and Inner Mongolia have been defined

BRITISH SUBJECTS IN CHINA

M.P.'S ANXIETY FOR SAFEGUARDS

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter).—In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. J. W. Baillie (Lab.) asked whether the Prime Minister would give instructions that special care should be taken to safeguard the well-being of British subjects in China who are objects of Japanese suspicion or malevolence.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replied that the local British authorities would take such measures as were possible, but that no special instructions appeared to be called for.

Vague Statement?

Mr. Baillie: If he aware that British subjects in parts of North China are seriously disturbed by the situation and cannot they have something more definite than this very vague statement?

Mr. Butler: I think the statement I have made is very definite. I am aware of the member's anxiety.

Mr. Arthur Henderson (Lab.): Have any direct representations been made to the Japanese Government in regard to the anti-British feeling augmented by the Japanese authorities?

Mr. Butler: Yes.

In reply to a further question, Mr. Butler declared that interests of British trade in China would be kept fully in mind in the course of the Anglo-Japanese negotiations.

In the first category under the anti-Comintern policy. North China within the Yellow River comes under the second category. In many ways similar to the first, especially in politics and economics, but in military strategy merely a defensive bank whereas Inner Mongolia and "Manchukuo" may be regarded as jumping-off places for the Northward advance. The territory south of the Yellow River falls within a third category: that of passive political and economic co-operation.

These conceptions have been blurred by events on a gigantic scale, but the Dohara Five-Province scheme still remains the basis of the strategy of the Army, and it will regain its vigour if Wang Ching-wei attains any large measure of success.

But if the South and Central provinces may look forward perhaps to considerable changes, we in North China may not.

It will be something if the North acquires the definite lineaments of the second category and does not merge insensibly into that of the first, where the totalitarian policy is in full swing. More than that Tientsin can hardly expect.

IF WANG FAILS...

On the other hand, if Wang Ching-wei fails, the preconceived categories become illusory, and the whole of China will remain till the end of this cataclysmic chapter, within the first category, while the long lease of life—or rather freedom from intervention—which the Soviet gained in 1922 will continue, though, perhaps, in a much modified form.

A general survey may, perhaps, be permitted in this first letter. A descent to the particular hereafter will thus be facilitated. Most of us in Tientsin realise that we are a storm centre of history for reasons quite beyond ourselves. Accordingly we face realities in that spirit.

There is no desire to minimise the protracted difficulties that lie before us. Even the dullest political mind amongst us has some inkling of the momentous character of the times. But the complete defeatists are few. Even the Germans survived the war and came back to rebuild and expand their trade.

I am not one of those who believe that Ichabod is written above the electrified fence that encompasses us. Just as the Retreat from Mons ended with the Return to Mons, so will our shattered fortunes be rebuilt. No doubt some of the weaker will go to the wall.

But here will be more original survivors, relatively speaking, than there were in the Retreat from Mons in 1918. That, at least, is how I feel about it, and doubtless a good many others.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN DEFENDS BRITAIN'S FOREIGN POLICY IN COMMONS DEBATE

Severe Criticism By Opposition: Delay In Soviet Pact Agreement And British Position In Far East

Britain's Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in a strong and eloquent statement, defended the British Government's foreign policy during the debate on Foreign Affairs in the House of Commons on Monday.

The Premier dealt with the whole international situation in answering criticisms made by the Liberal and Labour Opposition and maintained that His Majesty's Government was pursuing a policy in the best interests of world peace.

Mr. Chamberlain referred in his speech to the negotiations with the Soviet, the guarantees given against aggression, Germany, Danzig, Poland and the Far East.

LIBERAL LEADER OPENS DEBATE: CHARGE OF APPEASEMENT

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—Initiating the foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons yesterday, Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the Liberal Opposition, referred to the recent speech by Viscount Halifax in which the latter said: "Our immediate task is to resist aggression."

"The accredited leaders of both the Opposition parties, in language equally clear, plain and downright, have endorsed that speech," declared the Liberal Leader. "Mr. Chamberlain has not yet done so."

(Conservative cries of "Oh!")

"Let me say quite bluntly," continued Sir Archibald, "that an impression exists that the Prime Minister is still inclined to appeasement and is less resolute in his resistance to aggression than Viscount Halifax."

Sir Archibald declared that they stood in urgent need of reassurance about the negotiations with Russia, and he thought the House should not adjourn for a long period, until those negotiations had been concluded.

It was his contention that a full account of the negotiations should have been given to the House a long time ago.

FOG OF SUSPICION

Sir Archibald Sinclair declared that he had been convinced by the speeches of M. Stalin and other Russian statesmen, and by the resolutions passed by the organs of the Government, that the Soviet believed in agreement in the interests of the Russian people.

Therefore, the Government must dissipate the fog of suspicion that exists and must make friends with Russia.

"As a gesture of friendship and respect we should have sent to Moscow a man of the highest standing in this country, and a man of the highest political standing who would have access to the most powerful authorities in the Kremlin," said the Liberal leader.

TENSE SITUATION

"Events in Czechoslovakia, Spain and Danzig had illustrated the absolute necessity of finding some practical definition of the phrase 'indirect aggression'."

"I very much regret the Government's decision to accord even de facto recognition to German rule in Czechoslovakia by applying for an exequatur for a British Consul in Prague, but I am at least glad that the Government has stood firm and has not yielded to the German demands to recognise the annexation of the Jews."

"The situation in Czechoslovakia is very tense, and the spark might easily be struck in that country which might set all Europe ablaze."

"If peace is to be preserved and aggression stopped, the Government must tell us and Germany at what point the line is going to be drawn in Danzig."

THE FAR EAST

Turning to the Far East, the Liberal leader declared that Britain could not be neutral in the Sino-Japanese struggle. British sympathies, he declared, must instinctively lie with China.

He asked whether the formula of the recent agreement would hamper the Government in giving help to China, and whether the Government would refuse to weaken China's power of resistance by handing over the Chinese silver now in Tientsin.

Sir Archibald Sinclair urged despatch in consultations with the Dominions so that action could be taken on the commercial treaty with Japan at the earliest possible moment.

"Do not let Britain lose another chance of co-operating with the

MR. CHAMBERLAIN

United States in the Far East," he cried.

HUNGARY'S POSITION

Sir Archibald asked whether, if Hungary was a victim of unprovoked aggression and decided to defend her independence, Britain would regard it as her duty to help her to resist.

"All members of the peace front should make it clear that they were willing to share with all the other nations, including Germany and Italy, all the advantages of this association, provided they also shared in its obligations."

"That would place the responsibility for encirclement where Viscount Halifax has placed it on German shoulders."

"It is an encirclement which Germany could break at any time by joining the circle with complete equality of status and by non-armament and acceptance of the rule of law and third party judgment."

LABOUR LEADER'S CRITICISM

Mr. Hugh Dalton (Labour) declared that the Opposition strongly objected to members being sent away for an indefinite and long period in recess, as it would have been proper to have had a more constant touch with the Ministers on the international situation.

"The Labour Opposition does not trust the Government either to do the right thing when Parliament's back is turned, or to re-assemble Parliament when or if the need arises," he said.

Mr. Dalton criticised the delays in the Russian and Polish negotiations, and referring to the staff talks, declared that he hoped the members of the mission would set the politicians a good example by getting down to brass tacks.

PROPER COURSE

The proper course would be for Viscount Halifax to see M. Molotov, or to invite M. Molotov to see Viscount Halifax. It would be admirable, added Mr. Dalton, if Viscount Halifax met M. Molotov, and Mr. Chamberlain exchanged views with M. Stalin.

"If Herr Hitler can be sure that Russia is with England and France, I am certain there will be no war, this year at least, and perhaps for a long period in the future."

PRIME MINISTER'S REPLY IN COMMONS: EUROPEAN POLITICAL SITUATION

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—"If war should come and whichever side claimed the victory, nothing is more certain than that the victor and vanquished will glean a gruesome harvest."

These words were used by the British Prime Minister in concluding his reply to the criticisms offered by the Liberal and Labour Opposition during Monday's debate on Foreign Affairs in the House of Commons.

Mr. Chamberlain, in dealing with European affairs, emphasized that the negotiations proceeding were of "a highly delicate character" and that one had to be careful of what one said.

Mr. Chamberlain, who was loudly cheered upon rising, said: "In a position where we are conducting a number of negotiations with foreign Powers, some of them of a highly delicate character, I feel it is an occasion when one should be careful of what one says."

NOT AN EASY TASK

"The task of carrying on negotiations on foreign affairs is not easy, and I believe that members who have held responsible positions in the past, and hope to hold them in the future, should exercise a little more sense in what is fitting and what is likely to help the cause they profess to have at heart, before giving voice to such observations."

The Premier said that good use had been made of the time since March in the matter of re-armament, and our defences are now, indeed, of a formidable character.

The arrangements made with Poland and Turkey in conjunction with France were important in building up the peace front.

Mr. Chamberlain declared that by the guarantees given to Rumania and Greece, these countries were given an assurance that they were not without friends, and not without those who recognised that they might possibly be objects of attack, and who had promised to go to their assistance if they were.

RECrimINATIONS

The Prime Minister declared that Mr. Dalton had been proud of his insistence in asking questions about the Russian negotiations, and in fact "he had tried for a long time to goad me into recriminations against the Soviet by seeking to put the blame for the delay upon this Government. If I restrain myself, it is measure of the sincerity of my desire to come to an agreement."

"I can assure the House that it required some self-control from correcting the false impressions which Mr. Dalton sought to convey. I am not going to give to-day a summary of the negotiations for that very reason."

"I know perfectly well there are people in other countries who are watching very jealousy these negotiations, and would be exceedingly glad of any ammunition they could use in order to divide the Soviet Government and ourselves."

"I do not propose to give them that information."

NO SECRET

"There is no secret about the fact that the Soviet, French, and British governments combined have hitherto not been able to agree upon a definition satisfactory to all parties of the term 'indirect aggression,' although all three of us realise that indirect aggression could be just as dangerous as direct aggression, and the three of us desire to find a satisfactory method of providing against it."

"At the same time, we are exceedingly anxious not even to appear desirous of encroaching on the independence of other States, and if we do not agree both France and ourselves—with the Soviet Government on this defini-

CHINESE FEAR OF SOVIET RAIDS IN "MANCHUKUO"

PEIPING, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—Trains from "Manchukuo" are crammed with the wealthier Chinese from "Manchukuo" who are coming into North China for refuge from fear of the Soviet bombing Harbin, Hsinking, Mukden, and other cities in view of the continued Japanese-Soviet tension.

LATEST JAPANESE DEMANDS

POLICE & JUDICIAL POSTS IN TIENTSIN CONCESSION

TOKYO, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—The Japanese are demanding the appointment of thirty Japanese to police and judicial posts in the British Concession in Tientsin, according to the "Asahi Shimbun," which states that these posts are necessary for the maintenance of peace and order in the Concession.

The Japanese are also reported to be demanding priority in examining "anti-Japanese Communist elements" captured in the Concession.

BRITAIN SEEKS U.S. VIEWS

LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—The British Government is seeking the views of the United States Government on several of the issues involved in the Far East directly affecting the interests of the two countries, writes the "Daily Telegraph's" diplomatic correspondent.

This step was taken as a result of the recent indication of American attitude provided by the announced intention to end the commercial treaty with Japan.

One question concerning the United States as well as Britain is the Japanese desire that Britain support the Japanese-sponsored currency in North China and cease to support the Chinese National dollar.

"Even if the British Government should feel disposed to reach an accommodation with Japan, which seems improbable," writes the correspondent, "it would be unable to do so without the assent of the other Powers directly concerned which include France as well as the United States."

MISGIVING ALLAYED
LONDON, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—The whole tone of Mr. Chamberlain's references to the Far East is reassuring, says the "Daily Telegraph" and should go far to allay possible misgivings regarding the somewhat indeterminate wording of the Tokyo formula.

The "Daily Express" says that the decisions on the policy in the Far East will give satisfaction, "for if we are to be troubled and harassed in business occupations in China, only one method will be found satisfactory in the end—give the Chinese all the support we can."

COLLAPSED IN STREET

An inquiry was held at the Kowloon Court yesterday before Mr. Q. A. Macfarlane, sitting as Coroner, and a jury comprising Messrs G. E. F. Thompson (Foreman), J. J. Remedios and Fong Shui-chuen, into the death of Wong Sam, 30, employed as a boy at Lyeemun Barracks who collapsed in Kung Chung Street, Yau-mat, about 11 p.m. on July 9, and subsequently died.

Wong Sam, deceased's brother, gave evidence that Wong Sam had been four years in the Colony, was not of a quarrelsome disposition, and had no reason to commit suicide or enemy to assault him. He was, however, always sick.

The jury returned a verdict of death from multiple injuries, probably sustained as the result of a fall in Kung Chung Street, Yau-mat, about 11 p.m. on July 9, there being no evidence upon which it could be determined what led to this fall.

Sentence of three months' hard labour was imposed on Kwang Cheung, 23, unemployed, when he appeared before Mr. T. J. Houston at the Central Court yesterday charged with attempted to steal a purse from a shop assistant, Kong King-mei, on board the s.s. Tin Yat on Monday.

the victor and vanquished will glean a gruesome harvest. "I believe that this great and profound fundamental truth is beginning to get down to the minds of the rulers and people alike." (Obers.)

VITAL AUTUMN PERIOD

TENSION IN DANZIG RISES AGAIN

Nazi Leaders To Discuss Plans With Herr Hitler

BERLIN, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—The Danzig question is again in the foreground of the German press. A German news agency describes the Polish measures restricting entry of certain goods into Danzig as a breach of the Polish-Danzig economic agreement.

Polish customs officials, whose names are given, are accused of espionage and political activities, while a dispatch from Poznan alleges ill-treatment and imprisonment of German-speaking people.

VITAL AUTUMN?

DANZIG, Aug. 1 (Reuter)—Herr Forster, the Nazi leader in Danzig will holiday in his native birthplace, at Furth, together with another Danzig leader, Herr Zarske, and later they will go to the Salzburg Festival, where it is understood they will see Herr Hitler when plans for the vital autumn period will be discussed. Until then observers here do not expect any major development within the Free City.

Many workers were arrested in a recent anti-communist drive and are reported to have been flown to Berlin where, it is said, several have been executed for high treason.

TRADE WAR?

M. Chodacki, Polish Commissioner General, is understood to be hurrying back from a holiday to deal with what threatens to develop into a bitter trade war between the Free City and Poland. The Poles recently threatened that unless better treatment is given their inspectors at the margarine combines factory in Danzig they would withdraw their men. The combines trade with Poland.

Poland has now definitely refused to take any more margarine from the factory and the Danzig Senate has threatened that unless the decision is reconsidered, the Free City will "wage an economic war on a full scale" against Poland.

China War:

DESULTORY FIGHTING IN KIANGSI

JAPANESE LEAVING S.E. SHANSI

SINYU, KIANGSI, Aug. 1 (Central)—A full exists on the Central Kiangsi front. Chinese and Japanese positions remain practically unchanged.

There has been only desultory rifle fire on the Chin River.

Japanese Withdraw

LOYANG, Aug. 1 (Central)—A brief military message from the front reveals that after the failure of their "mopping up" campaign, the Japanese troops in South-East Shansi, have started a general withdrawal in different directions.

Chinese counter-offensives in this vicinity of Hsiahshien have caused heavy casualties to the Japanese. A surprise raid on the Japanese barracks at Liuchakow, east of Hsiahshien, was staged by the Chinese on the night of July 29.

The Chinese and Japanese forces are now reported to be locked in a battle at the hilly region south-east of Hsiahshien.

Chinese forces penetrated into Wan-an, west of Hsiahshien, recently. Japanese units, hiding behind their fortifications, offered stubborn resistance.

Night Raid On Chungking

CHUNGKING, Aug. 1 (Central)—Eighteen Japanese planes staged a moonlight raid over Chungking last night.

They broke into the city in two squadrons around nine o'clock, and were immediately challenged by Chinese pursuit machines to aerial combats. Chinese anti-aircraft batteries also went into action.

The invaders released scores of bombs and departed. A fire was started.

KWEILIN ALSO BOMBED

KWEILIN, Aug. 1 (Central)—Death and destruction were rained by 18 Japanese bombers over Kweilin yesterday. A number of bombs were dumped in the city, killing and wounding many civilians and leveling over a dozen houses to the ground.

INTERESTING SALE OF WORK

The refugee women of the South China Industrial Centre staged a very interesting sale of work yesterday in St. John's Cathedral Hall, sponsored by the Hongkong Chinese Women's Club and the South China Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The refugees' handicrafts were products of their labours during the past six months and was most creditable.

Many products, donated by local companies added to the sale, and it is estimated over a thousand merchandise were sold before the opening day.

Approximately $7,000 has been donated to the South China Industrial Centre for materials used by the refugees, and it is expected from the profits of yesterday that the principle will be returned with profit.

RAINFALL IN JULY

The monthly rainfall report for July shows that, except for two days when there were slight showers (July 2 and 3), the first half of the month was fine.

On July 17 the heaviest rainfall was recorded (1.71 inches) and this was followed on the next three days with falls of 1.88, 1.07 and .81 inches, respectively.

Intermittent showers fell during the rest of the month, culminating with a heavy fall of 1.70 inches on July 30. The total rainfall for the month was 10.53 inches.

A JOY-RIDING SALESMAN

A joy-riding salesman, Mak Yau, 19, found himself in Court yesterday after an adventure the night before when he had driven away from the Allampra Theatre in Car No. 2731.

The owner of the car, Mr. A. Humphreys, missed the car and walked out to look for it. He found it being driven along Cheung Sha Wan Road by the defendant. Mak was fined $10 and the Kowloon Court by Mr. Humphreys on convictions for driving a motor vehicle without a licence and without the owner's permission.

EDWARDS' TRIAL NEARS END AT SESSIONS

Asked if there was anything to indicate that he was not his normal self that morning, witness said that he was not dressed in his uniform after 9.30, which, for a man of regular habits, such as he, was unusual. Witness said it was not his practice to put on civilian clothes on Sunday, such as other officers might do.

"CAN'T RECOLLECT"

Mr. Whyatt: Was there anything you said that indicated you were not your normal self—I can't recollect.

Witness went on to say that he had made up his mind to release Lau, subject to verification of his respectability by Wong Wing.

Mr. Whyatt: You agree with me the case was being treated in a most exceptional way.—Yes.

Why did you treat this case in an exceptional way?—I said I was not feeling well. If I had been normal, I would have disposed of this case within half an hour.

Witness said it was usual for a man who was sent for by a police station to go to the Charge Room, but Wong Wing was a friend or the detectives and interpreters and frequently saw them when going to the station before he saw witness himself.

Mr. Whyatt: Un was not running the risk of certain detection

if he had mentioned money if as far as Un knew witness was listening. Witness said that that was so if he had been listening.

I put it to you that a Chinese interpreter in those circumstances would not dare to ask for squeeze unless he knew his superior officer was approving.—That's your imagination.

EDWARDS WARNED

In the course of further cross-examination by Mr. Whyatt, the Chief Justice had occasion to warn Edwards against answering counsel in an impertinent manner pointing out that it was in his own (Edwards') interest to control his temper.

After further questioning, in which Edwards stated that he had said that the matter could be checked up when Un said he had been on duty and waking down statements on the Sunday when Un was charged by Acting Sub-Inspector Mottram, Mr. Whyatt recalled A. S. I. Mottram.

He said that he heard no words by Edwards on the occasion. In answer to Mr. Sheldon, witness said if words were uttered in ordinary tones, he could not have missed hearing whilst he was writing in his notebook.

The case will be resumed this morning.

URBAN COUNCIL MEETING

Select Committee To Enquire Into Night Soil Removal

A SELECT COMMITTEE consisting of Mr. R. R. Todd (Chairman of the Urban Council), the Hon. Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke (Director of Medical Services and Vice-Chairman of the Council), Mr. A. el Arculli, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto and Mr. B. Wong Tape was appointed at yesterday's meeting of the Urban Council to inquire into the whole question of the removal of night soil from Colony houses.

Present at the meeting were:—Mr. R. R. Todd (Chairman), Hon. Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke (Director of Medical Services and Vice-Chairman), Hon. Mr. A. B. Purves (Director of Public Works), Hon. Mr. H. R. Butters (Secretary of Chinese Affairs), Hon. Mr. C. G. Perdue (Commissioner of Police), Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. A. el Arculli, Dr. S. N. Chau, Mr. B. Wong Tape, Mr. Tang Shiu-kin, Mr. C. Champkin, Hon. Mr. Li Tse-fong, Mr. C. J. Roe (Secretary) and Mr. Im Ping-tung (Asst. Secretary).

Hon. Mr. Li Tse-fong took his seat at the Council table for the first time and was welcomed by the Chairman.

The following applications were refused at the meeting:—application for an eating house licence for No. 23, Boundary Street, ground floor; application for an eating house licence for No. 562, Shanghai Street, ground floor; application for a milk shop licence for No. 49, Sing Wo Road, ground floor; application for a food factory licence for No. 160, Wing Lok Street, ground floor. Regular returns were tabled.

Select Committee

Moving the appointment of the Select Committee, Mr. Todd said:—"Members will recall that when we were considering the estimates for the next year this matter became of some prominence. His Excellency has now instructed me to appoint a Select Committee of this Council to inquire into the whole matter of removal of night-soil, in the hope that in due course, the Council might be able to put up some recommendation to Government on the subject."

Mr. Todd then named the five gentlemen to form the sub-committee.

Dr. Selwyn-Clarke

The Hon. Dr. Selwyn-Clarke:—"It gives me great pleasure to second the proposal. I think we all agree that Hongkong—this fair city of Hongkong—is rather behind-hand in regard to one of the most important services to which citizens are entitled, namely, the satisfactory removal of night-soil."

Submarine Men Told 'Save Yourselves' They Do It With This

Man in the tank is wearing the Davis life-saving apparatus for submarines. The Admiralty rejected the diving bell rescue chamber which saved thirty-three men from the sunken U. S. submarine Squalus. Since the "No more steel tombs, save yourselves" order to submarine crews in 1934, all British submarines have been equipped with the Davis gear.

If the escape chambers in the submarine can be used, there is no reason why every one in her should not escape. It is not necessary for a man to stay behind to operate the mechanism of the chamber. It can be worked from the interior of the submarine, or from inside the chamber itself.

Government has already accepted the responsibility of removing the night-soil in the barges along the water-front, but it has not so far taken the responsibility of removing night-soil from the premises which do not enjoy the benefit of the water-carriage system.

There are some 65,000 flats which have to rely for this removal on individual arrangements. We have all seen in the papers the steps which have been taken by this Council against night-soil being dumped in street drains which are not meant for disposal of night-soil, and I am sure that we have all felt that the system should be overhauled and brought up to date and no longer be a blot on the fair name of the city of Hongkong."

INTESTINAL DISEASES

The speaker went on to say that this question was of particular importance in this part of the world where there was a prevalence of intestinal diseases. Up to last Saturday there had been, this year, 372 cases of cholera, 574 of typhoid and 651 of dysentery, all preventable diseases, some of which were undoubtedly attributable to the unsatisfactory way in which night-soil was being removed at present.

He was extremely hopeful that the sub-committee would be able to devise some scheme whereby the removal of night-soil from premises without the water-carriage system would be properly done, and, in conclusion, he hoped that the sub-committee would bear in mind the dangers that lurked behind the possibility of entrusting this important service amongst people over whom the Council would not have adequate supervision.

LICENCES GRANTED

The following licences were granted by the Council between July 18 and July 31:—one food factory, one bake house, four eating houses and one restaurant.

"NEVER A BRITISH REFUGEE"

"There has never been a British refugee." This striking sentence was used by Lord Lloyd, chairman of the British Council, at a luncheon given by the Government to 70 of the 130 foreign students who have been in England during the past year with British Council scholarships.

Lord Lloyd said he hoped the students had appreciated the fact that the Council had attempted no political propaganda. I had allowed them to see and hear what they pleased and to gather their own impressions of our country.

"Whatever criticisms and accusations have been levelled against British rule," he added, "no one in our Empire has ever shown a wish to change that rule."

Britain's Determination
Earl De La Warr, President of the Board of Education, who was in the chair, said that the students had been in England during a very interesting period. He went on:—

"The scene is changing, rather unwillingly, from easy-going, tolerant nation to one with a grim determination that if our faith in some other nations is to be disappointed, it shall not be our friends and those to whom we have pledged our word who shall suffer."

The students represent 37 countries. None of them is German, although the examinations on which the scholarships are awarded, are open to that country.

The scholars have lived as students in England for a year. They have seen the country from the cultural and academic standpoint.

To celebrate the 82nd Anniversary of the Hongkong Daily Press, the oldest morning paper in Hongkong, which was established on October 1, 1857, a special supplement is to be issued. This will be printed on good quality paper and will be profusely illustrated, and it will give the best presentation of Hongkong yet attempted.

As the Hongkong Daily Press's 82nd Anniversary falls ten days before October 10, the Double-Tenth, which is China's National Day, it is proposed to commemorate the occasion in the same special supplement which will, therefore, also give a comprehensive account of the progress of the Republic of China as made under the guidance of the Kuo Min Tang.

It being the wish of the publishers of the Hongkong Daily Press to emphasize Sino-British friendship as the theme of the special supplement, a cover design clearly presenting this theme is being sought. Unique Feature Of Ipoh Fair

Perhaps for the first time in local history, Chinese coffins were donated and publicly sold in aid of charity in the recent Charity Trade Fair organised by the Perak Chinese Chamber of Commerce and the Perak Overseas Chinese in aid of the China Distress Relief Fund, at the Jubilee Park grounds.

Altogether six coffins, two highly priced, were donated by local coffin-makers and occupied a stall in the Fair grounds. One was purchased by a prominent Chinese miner for about $1,000 while four were purchased by Mr. Leong Sin Nam for about $300.

These were placed in a cave temple in Gopeng Road for any bereaved Chinese family who could not afford to purchase a coffin for their deceased.

Most Successful

The Fair just concluded is one of the most successful ever organised in Perak. During the seven days it is estimated that 200,000 persons visited the Fair and about $150,000 (Straits), more than half a million in Chinese currency, was collected towards the China Distress Relief Fund.

A charming portrait of the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek was purchased by the women's section of the Perak Chinese Relief Fund for $300.

In an endeavour to raise funds for refugees at Swatow a meeting of the Perak Hong Kong Hoay Teochew Association was held on Sunday to discuss ways and means to collect donations. A special committee was elected to go into the matter.

Pool For Party Funds Urged

"RICH AREAS SHOULD HELP THE POOR"

Mr. Ian Harvey, prospective National Conservative candidate for Don Valley, leader of a campaign in favour of "merit not money" as the qualification for Conservative Parliamentary aspirants, is now taking further steps to try to reform the party's financial system.

In consultation with a number of Conservative M.P.s prospective candidates, agents and officials, he has drawn up a memorandum, the aim of which is to see that the best men are available for the party in Parliament.

This memorandum was placed in the hands of a number of M.P.s, and a private meeting was held in London.

"The question of financial demands on M.P.s and prospective candidates was first raised in January with the issue of a report called 'A Plutocratic System'."

"This preliminary campaign has served its purpose in arousing interest," states the memorandum, "but the battle is only beginning, and the whole-hearted co-operation of every Conservative, be he M.P., candidate, official, agent, or rank and file member, is required before it can be won."

Area Funds

"The problem really is how to get more people to join the Conservative party and to subscribe to the local Conservative Associations. Without these subscriptions it is impossible to make any substantial reduction in the member's contribution without making drastic economies in the organisation."

One recommendation deals with area organisations: "It proposes that area funds be augmented by contributions by the rich constituents."

"At the moment a great deal is being needlessly spent in safe seats while insufficient funds are available for struggles where the result is close," states the memorandum.

Another suggestion is that everyone should be given a chance to run the local organisation. "Just as it should be possible for a wage-earner to become a Conservative M.P., so it ought to be possible for him to become chairman of a local association, or to hold any office within it," it is asserted.

Mr. Tan Kah-kee, a leader in the Chinese community in Singapore and organizer of several drives netting millions of dollars for relief and war work in China, on July 24 addressed telegrams to a number of British leaders voicing strong opposition to any compromise with Japan. In his messages Mr. Tan declared he was speaking on behalf of 8,000,000 overseas Chinese living under British rule—many of them British subjects.

ONLY ONE WAS MISSING

Of the 34,000 Militiamen called up only one was missing. And he, it was found when the documents were checked up, had joined the Regular Army.

In a few cases illness prevented young men from reporting but medical certificates were received on their behalf.

One who reported carried a little wicker basket and looked rather anxious. On reaching the camp he opened the basket—releasing a pigeon which carried an "Arrived safely" message to his mother.

Another youth was too fat for any stock uniform. One had feet so small that no boots would fit him. He walked around in canvas slippers which flapped on his feet.

"BLANK MIND" DEFENCE

Charge Of Stealing Manuscript Bible

A remarkable statement was read at Warwick Assizes in which the archivist to the Buckinghamshire County Council, Marcus Paul Dare, 37, of Aston Clinton-road Western Turville, Aylesbury, is alleged to have declared that while his mind was "a complete blank as the result of malignant malaria" he took a Latin Manuscript Vulgate bible, value £150, from a case in Buckingham Parish Church.

Dare was charged with stealing the bible and he pleaded not guilty.

The jury failed to agree and a retrial was ordered.

Mr. T. Vincent Walter, prosecuting said that when Insp. Heritage interviewed Dare he denied all knowledge of the theft. Later a man arrived at Thame post office and handed in a parcel and a telegram addressed to the Vicar of Buckingham, which read: "Old book safe, reaching you Monday." The vicar told the police and the parcel at the post office was found to contain the bible.

Alleged Statement

Insp. Heritage informed Dare of this and it was alleged, Dare made a statement in which he said:

"I went to the church to examine mediaeval Bible. I cannot remember whether I was carrying a parcel when I left because everything in my head was a complete blank until I found myself in my car driving to Chetwood, where I had to go."

"I had removed the bible from its case and must have had it with me, but I knew nothing of this until I got to my office. I then realised, to my amazement and distress that I had, without reason or need, stolen the book. I do not remember even an impulse to steal it."

"I denied having possession of the book when I was interviewed because I realised that, what I had done, in a complete mental blank due to malignant malaria, was likely to brand me undeservedly as a thief, and my one anxiety was to gain time to get the book returned." This I did from Thame post office.

The Rev. R. F. Balé, Vicar of Buckingham, cross-examined by Mr. Rodger Winn, defending, said that he knew Dare.

Obsessed Scholar

Mr. Winn: Do you know that he is rather an obsessed scholar, obsessed with his scholarly work to the exclusion of more human interests?—I know he is very interested in his work and does it extremely well.

Mr. Winn said that Dare suffered from a type of hysteria which produced states of dissociation of personality.

Dare gave evidence, and was asked what was to prevent his going straight back when he found the bible in his possession. He replied, "I did not want to look an utter fool. I thought the best thing I could do was to go at night and return it 'anonymously'."

BRITAIN WILL NOT REVERSE FAR EAST POLICY AT THE REQUEST OF ANOTHER POWER

PRIME MINISTER EXPLAINS TOKYO AGREEMENT: A WARNING TO JAPAN

LONDON, Aug. 1. (Reuter).—"Let me say once again that the Government will not reverse its policy in the Far East at the request of another Power. I should add that we have not been asked to do so," said Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in the course of his statement on international affairs, when he referred to Britain's Far East policy, in the House of Commons debate yesterday.

The Premier said that Britain's cause was not helped by reading into the Tokyo formula interpretations which the Government had already denied—interpretations which were calculated to give rise to anxiety and distrust in China and which were not borne out by a careful and impartial examination of the formula.

The formula was a statement of fact and did not denote a change of policy, nor the recognition of belligerent rights on the part of Japan. It did not betray British interests in China, and it did not purport to intend to surrender any rights belonging to third parties. Mr. Chamberlain said that Sir Archibald Sinclair had asked whether the formula meant we would help Japan to hold what she had got and not stand in the way of her getting more.

FANTASTIC STATEMENT
"Why suggest such a fantastic statement?" asked the Premier, and added: "What good ammunition for those who do not wish us well!" (Cheers).

"These suggestions are not only injurious, but are calculated to weaken our influence in the world. Let me say once again that the Government will not reverse its policy in the Far East at the request of another Power. I should add that we have not been asked by Japan to do so."

"No doubt there are plenty of difficulties in front of us in the delicate negotiations being carried on, and at least there is a persistence of anti-British agitation in North China carried on by people who are influenced, inspired and controlled by the Japanese."

SERIOUS VIEW
"I am bound to say that if this agitation continues and these attacks on British interests and rights in North China go on unchecked, the British Government will be obliged to take a very serious view of the matter."

Mr. Chamberlain added that this might make successful outcome of the negotiations very difficult.

Referring to the questions regarding Chinese silver, the Premier said he could not discuss questions of this character without the fullest communication with other countries whose interests were equally involved with our own.

U.S. ACTION
Referring to the recent action of the United States, the Premier said he believed that the general objects of Britain and the United States were closely similar, but that did not follow that one must necessarily do the same thing as the other.

"The House can rest assured that the Government places the utmost importance on collaboration where possible, and I will never fail to keep the United States Government informed of all Britain is doing or is about to do," (Cheers).

CLEAR STATEMENT
Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, speaking in the debate, said that he was delighted at the very clear statement made by the Prime Minister, and he thought it very satisfactory.

He saw no reason why we should not follow the example of the United States and denounce the Anglo-Japanese agreement.

Referring to the Japanese currency demand, he asked the Prime Minister to consider whether he could go even a little further, and say not only that we would do nothing to support the Japanese demand, but we would do something to prevent them from bringing it about.

DIPLOMATIC TRIUMPH
Referring to the formula, Sir John Wardlaw-Milne said that if the Japanese read no more there in than the words implied, he thought that it was a diplomatic triumph for Britain.

If the Japanese demanded support of their currency, however, a

CHINA HAS NOT BEEN LET DOWN

LONDON, Aug. 1. (Reuter).—A clear analysis and reaffirmation of the Government's policy towards China has been sent to Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, British Ambassador in China, for transmission to the Chinese Government in Chungking, writes the diplomatic correspondent of "The Times."

It includes points from Mr. Chamberlain's speech, but perhaps more fully shows the British attempt to face the facts in North China, but it in no way means that our policy in China is being altered or to put it bluntly—that China is being let down.

TOKYO TALKS
In London it is recognised that the Tokyo negotiations have reached a decisive stage, adds this correspondent, and the currency demands raised by the Japanese cannot be accepted by Britain.

The other Powers who are equally concerned are being informed of all that passes during the negotiations.

France has now assured the British Government that she fully appreciates our difficulties in the Far East and the magnitude of the issues involved, both economical and strategic.

In fact, it may be considered certain that Anglo-French co-operation will be no less close in the Far East than in Europe.

BRITISH AIM
"The Times," in the course of a leading article on Mr. Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons yesterday, writes:

"The British Government still acknowledges that the proper goal in their efforts is to find some just and equitable settlement of the struggle going on in China and the immediate aim of their policy must be to preserve a position from which it can make its influence most effectively felt for that purpose."

SUSPENSION URGED
CHUNGKING, Aug. 1. (Central).—The League of Nations' Union, the Chinese People's Foreign Relations Association and the China Branch of the International Peace Campaign have jointly sent a message to Mr. Chamberlain, asking him to suspend the Tokyo negotiations.

In a joint message to President Roosevelt the three public bodies express appreciation of the United States Government's denunciation of the 1911 Treaty of Commerce and Navigation with Japan.

K.R.A. QUARTERLY MEETING

The member referred to the inhuman yells of hawkers about Lock Road, and drew the attention of the meeting to a scavenging lane where refuse was being dumped in profusion, and sheets of newspaper, full of excreta, were being thrown out of windows.

Such disregard to sanitation, the member stated, came from Chinese residents in Lock Road who were paying $150 rent for a flat formerly to be had for $40. These Chinese residents, he also complained, dealt with the hawkers, and thus attracted numbers of them.

Replying to this complaint, Major Manners said that such dumping in backyards could be rectified by the taking out of a summons against the guilty party.

The member from Lock Road further explained that it would require a person's watching day and night to catch red-handed the guilty party.

H.M.S. MEDWAY DUE TO DAY
H. M. S. Medway, depot ship of the 4th Submarine Flotilla, will arrive in Hongkong this afternoon from Weihaiwei, where she has been on the usual summer cruise. The Medway will shortly leave for the south.

The Irish Republican Army is reported by the "News-Chronicle" to be issuing instructions from a place in the neighbourhood of Cork, in Eire.

The action of the British police in rounding up a large number of suspected members of the Irish Republican Army for deportation from England led to the arrest of a nineteen-year-old Irish girl (Transocean).
